Christian Nationalism

diverse groups
together under one banner.

MILITIAS, BORDER
VIGILANTES, NEO-NAZIS, QANON,
AND OTHER RIGHT-WING EXTREMIST
GROUPS.

Christian Nationalism does not get enough attention.

Christian Nationalism seized power in 2016.

In the end, Trump came to be in the WH less because of Russian interference and far more because a massive sociopolitical movement, known as the Christian Right wanted him in the WH.

This movement is over 4 decades old and has massive momentum and institutional clout and reach.

The Power Worshipers

INSIDE THE DANGEROUS RISE OF RELIGIOUS NATIONALISM

America's Religious Right has evolved into a Christian nationalist movement. It seeks to gain political power and to impose its vision on all of society.

Faith & Freedom Coalition's annual Road to Majority convention: "This party—or at least the hard rock of its base represented in this gathering—is moving toward, not away from Trumpism."

At the convention, speakers including Eric Metaxas, Ralph Reed, and Dinesh D'Souza all called for Republicans to defend the "good guys" of January 6, by which they meant the violent insurgents who tried to overthrow a legitimate election.

Katherine Stewart

My interest in this area first started in 1995 when a local couple were kidnapped by a group planning to build a, 'Whites only Ethno-state'. I later found out my neighbors, Chevie and Chylene Kehoe, were involved. They were later convicted of murder.

Over time several other local stories involving white supremacy were mentally cataloged. I realized some of my neighbors were members of the Klan, which included the leader of the KKK in my state.

Many more neighbors had ties to Neo-Nazis.

Christian Identity adherents had their own community located down the road from me.

In 2012, I heard a local man who I was told had ties to these groups was selected to replace a retiring Senator, alarm bells sounded.

Over the next 10 months I spent hours trying to find information on the background of this new Senator. Google Search and I became good friends and I learned tricks on how to dig deeper into the Web.

I soon had the goods to take to the local paper as well as having learned a lot more about other groups operating in the region and their ties to extremist.

I've been involved in at least a dozen investigations since 2012 and have helped take down politicians with extremist views and learned the identity of a few individuals that the FBI was unable to ascertain.

I'm still somewhat active and recently identified a couple individuals that took part in the Jan. 6 Capitol insurrection.

What I hope you come away with after listening to my presentation today:

The origin of the modern militia movement.

The role far-right evangelicals play.

Basic facts and better understanding of other threatening groups.

Learn about the inter-connectedness of these groups and their goals.

What lies ahead?

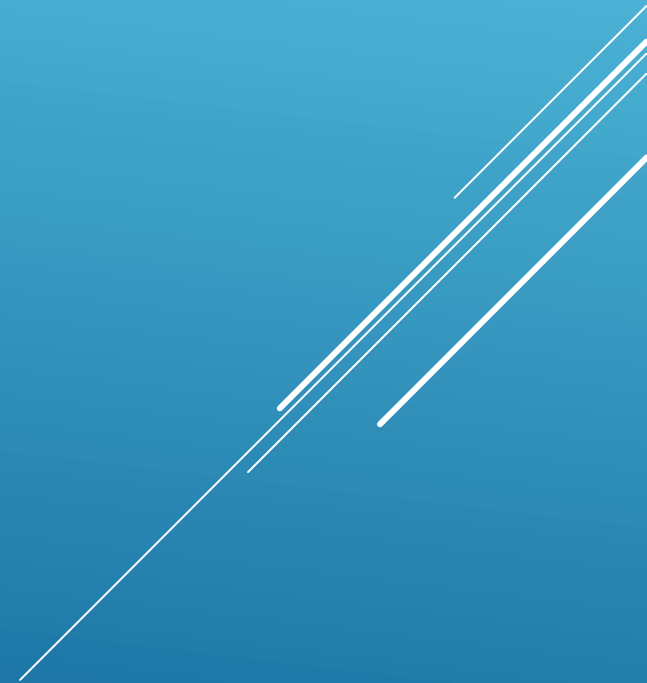

The extremist hate and intolerance that motivated the September 11, 2001, terrorist attacks continue to pose a serious threat to the United States.

But over the past 20 years, the threat landscape has changed dramatically.

Two decades after 9/11, right-wing extremist violence poses by far the greatest threat to everyone in this country.

Dominionism And Christian Identity

Christian nationalists believe in a revisionist history, which holds that the founders were devout Christians who never intended to create a secular republic; separation of church and state, according to this history, is a fraud perpetrated by God-hating subversives.

DOMINIONISM

“Christians have an obligation, a mandate, a commission, a holy responsibility to reclaim the land for Jesus Christ — to have dominion in civil structures, just as in every other aspect of life and godliness.

But it is dominion we are after. Not just a voice.

It is dominion we are after. Not just influence.

It is dominion we are after. Not just equal time.

It is dominion we are after.

World conquest. That’s what Christ has commissioned us to accomplish.”

D. James Kennedy

Christian Identity

is a unique antisemitic and racist theology that rose to a position of commanding influence on the racist right in the 1980s. “Christian” in name only, it asserts that white people, not Jews, are the true Israelites favored by God in the Bible.

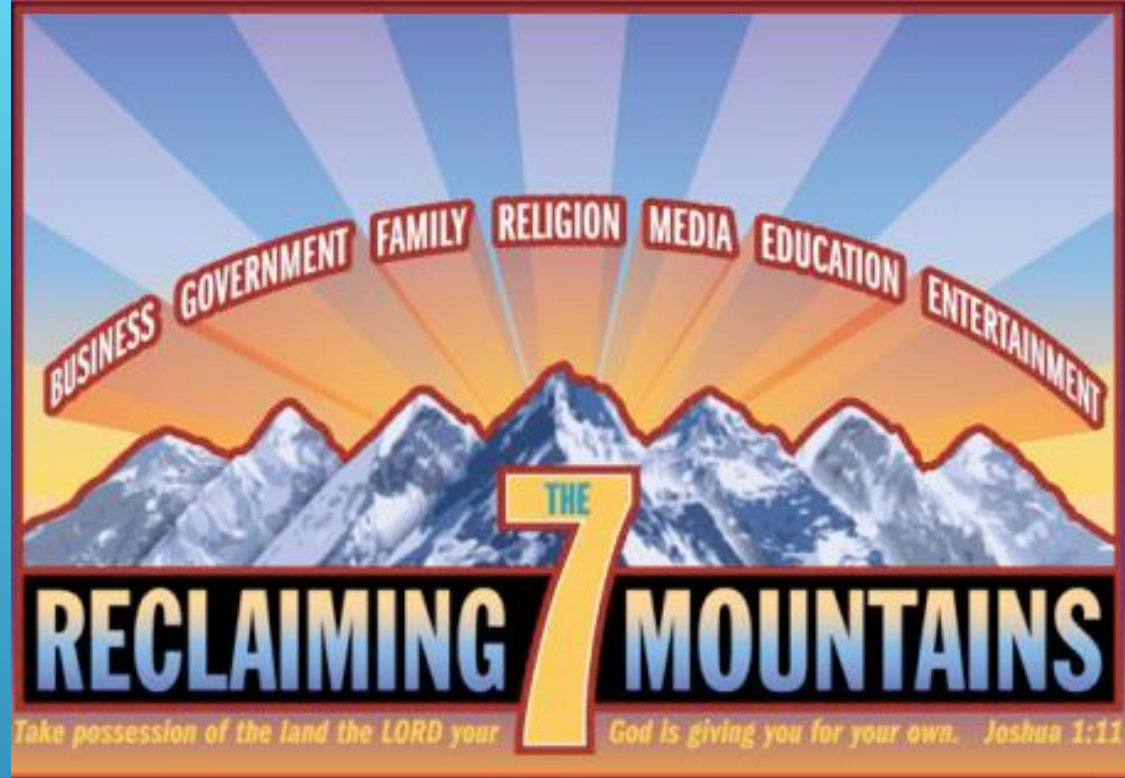

Christian Identity is NOT affiliated with specific Christian denominations. Its theology is a racial interpretation of Christianity.

Christian Identity beliefs were primarily developed and promoted by authors who regarded Europeans as the "chosen people" and Jews as the cursed offspring of Cain, the "serpent hybrid" or serpent seed.

(a belief which is known as the two-seedline doctrine).
White supremacist sects and prison gangs later adopted many of these teachings.

The Christian Identity movement first received widespread attention from the mainstream media in 1984, when the white nationalist organization The Order embarked on a murderous crime spree before it was suppressed by the FBI.

Robert, Mathews and eight other men—some neo-Nazi militants and other participants in the racist Christian Identity movement—took an oath to work toward a white supremacist society

Christian Identity provided the militant piece to the puzzle, Dominionism has provided the road map.

Working together the militia movement has their marching orders.
The Christian Patriot Militia Movement is the coming together of those two ideologies to successfully implement the 7 Mountains Mandate.

A GALLERY OF BELIEVERS

Christian Identity beliefs are pervasive in the upper echelon of the patriot movement, and this is not an accident.

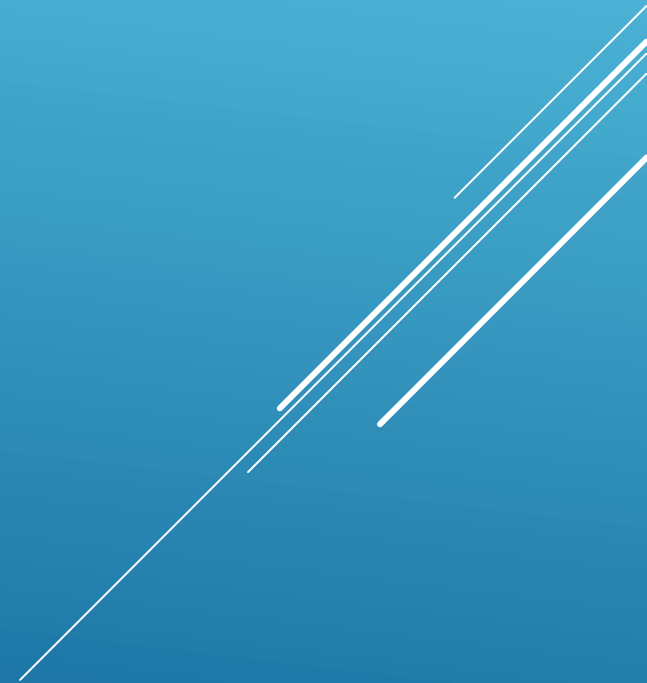

When Dominionist and Christian Identity adherents unite for the same cause.

Christian Identity - Related People

Two events are often sited as the impetus for the modern Christian Militia Movement.

More than any other issue the deadly standoffs at Ruby Ridge, Idaho, in 1992 and Waco, Texas, in 1993 ignited widespread passion.

To most Americans, these events were tragedies, but to the extreme right, they were examples of a government willing to stop at nothing to stamp out people who refused to conform.

The significance of Estes Park!

What happened at Estes Park Colorado in October 1992 and why the meeting was significant.

Pastor Pete Peters had signaled to the Christian Reconstructionist that there was common ideological, if not theological ground between the two religious' movements, while leaving considerable theological differences aside.

The meeting had a wide variety of religious adherents including Christian Identity, Baptist, Church of Christ and Mennonites.

The angry rhetoric at the Rendezvous flowed in one direction—at the federal government. Not the Jews, not the blacks, not the homosexuals, not the abortionist. The enemy was defined clearly as the federal government and the New World Order.

According to Morris Dees of the SPLC, the “Estes Park meeting actually established a working structure for the current militia/Christian Patriot Movement.”

THE CONFERENCE “EMBRACED THE CONCEPT OF CHURCH MILITIAS”.

There are numerous Right-wing organizations today that are making headlines across the country that are part of the Christian Militia Movement directly or indirectly. Here is a list of the most prominent groups.

Militias

Militias

- The American militia movement had been mostly dormant, but the election of Barack Obama gave it new life - and thousands of new members.
- There are currently hundreds of small local militias in the US, groups of "patriotic citizens" who own a lot of weaponry and spend a lot of time tramping through various wilderness areas training to use them.
- These groups train to prepare for what they see as the inevitable consequences of a Democratic president, such as gun confiscation, martial law, imprisonment of dissenters, mass purges, and totalitarian fascism.
- Most of these groups are also opposed to federal law and feel they're somehow above the rules that the rest of us live by. This means many have been shut down and raided by police or the FBI - with some groups involved in plots to overthrow the presidency and other serious infractions.

Arizona has been a hotbed for militia groups for years. With the border being an issue, numerous homegrown as well as out of state groups have come and gone, but often leaving a trail of misdeeds behind.

Probably the most memorable case happened not far from here in Arivaca, when members of a Minutemen militia murdered a father, his young daughter and leaving her mother to die.

On May 30, 2009, 29-year-old Raul Flores Jr. and his daughter, nine-year-old Brisenia Flores, were murdered during a home invasion in Arivaca, Arizona. The perpetrators were Shawna Forde, Jason Eugene Bush and Albert Gaxiola, all members of Forde's vigilante nativist group, Minutemen American Defense (MAD). Gina Gonzalez, the victims' wife and mother, was wounded but survived the attack after exchanging gunfire with the intruders, wounding Bush.

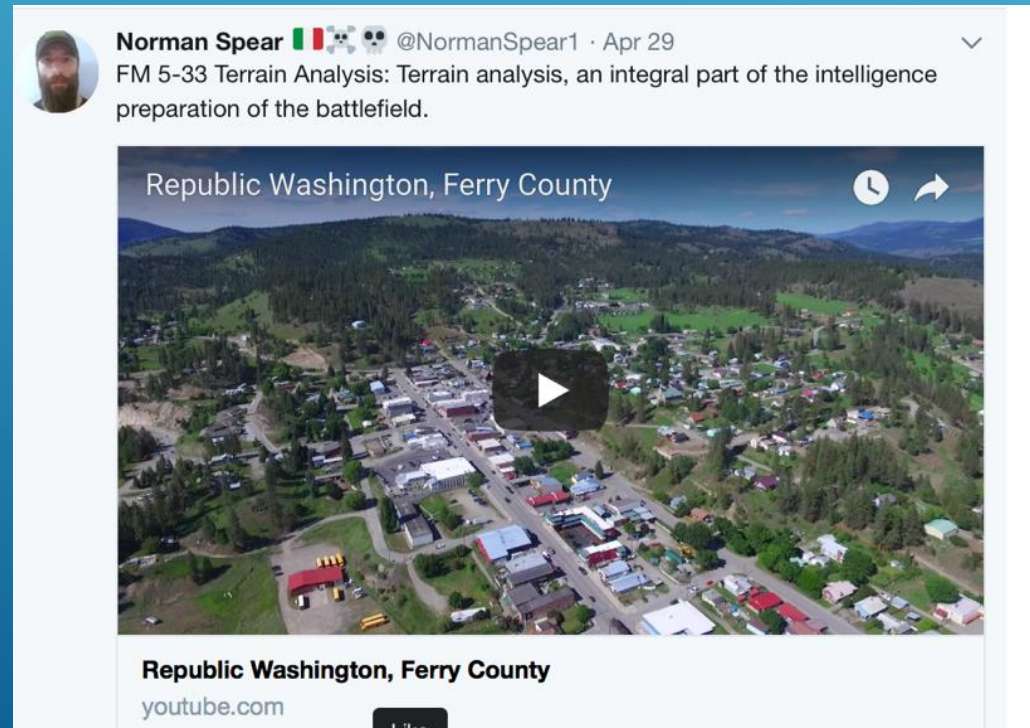

In 2011, all three assailants were convicted of murder. Forde and Bush were sentenced to death, while Gaxiola was sentenced to life in prison without parole.

The realization that a training facility for The BASE, a neo-Nazi white supremacist paramilitary hate group was in Washington State sent shock waves through the media.

Rinaldo Nazzaro, aka, Roman Wolf founded the BASE in 2018.

Rinaldo used to work for the FBI, Pentagon, and CIA before moving to Russia at the time he created the group.

The Base's goal is to unite white nationalists for the coming race war that will overthrow the government and reshape society.

A neo-Nazi terror cell enmeshed in the US Marine Corps made plans to attack the power grid last fall, hoping to set the stage to carry out assassinations in their quest to create a white ethno-state

- The Boogaloos —
- Have been calling for a civil war as well as a race war and seeks the violent overthrow of the U.S. government.
- Boogaloo members also openly advocate killing police officers.
- In Northern California, Boogaloo supporter Steven Carrillo was arrested in connection with an armed attack on a federal courthouse in Oakland on May 29.
- That attack left a security officer from the Federal Protective Service dead.

The Three Percenters movement

- The Three Percenters aren't one specific group, but rather, a movement of far-right militias.
- Three Percenters are well-armed and engage in military-like training, and they have made it clear that they are fully prepared for armed struggle.
- According to the Southern Poverty Law Center, "Percenterism is one of three core components within the anti-government militia movement, along with the Oath Keepers and traditional militia groups.
- The reference to '3 Percent' stems from the dubious historical claim that only 3% of American colonists fought against the British during the War of Independence.

The Proud Boys

Trump expressed his solidarity with the far-right Proud Boys — a group of self-described "western chauvinists" who openly advocate violence and have been carrying out violent attacks against members of Black Lives Matter at anti-racism demonstrations.

After Trump's endorsement, members of the Proud Boys expressed their feelings of empowerment and declared that they were ready to carry out acts of violence on the president's behalf.

President Trump asked the Proud Boys to 'stand by.'

There is evidence that members of the Proud Boys are more involved in the Jan 6 insurrection than first realized. Roger Stone was surrounded by PBs on Jan 5 and 6 during secret meetings at a DC hotel. They may have been a bigger part of the story than the Oath Keepers.

Proud Boy leader arrested for his part in the Capitol Insurrection.

Right-wing political violence and other antisocial and destructive behavior are gradually becoming normalized across American society.

The events of Jan. 6 were a logical next step. As law enforcement and other terrorism experts have repeatedly warned, that was not the end of a wave of right-wing violence in America but just another stage in a centuries-long journey.

The next step could well be a sustained right-wing insurgency against multiracial democracy.

OATH KEEPERS

The Oath Keepers, which claims tens of thousands of present and former law enforcement officials and military veterans as members, is one of the largest radical antigovernment groups in the U.S. today.

While it claims only to be defending the Constitution, the entire organization is based on a set of baseless conspiracy theories about the federal government working to destroy the liberties of Americans.

- Leader and Founder of the Oath Keepers is Stewart Rhodes.
- Stewart appears to be heavily involved in the preplanning for the Trump Rally on Jan. 6.
- I have obtained secretly recorded videos of Stewart speaking at a private meeting telling his audience made up of clergy and political officials urging them to train their families and congregations on setting up sniper teams for the civil war he predicted.
- Stewart has spoken in this facility at Quail Creek.

The past Vice-Chair of the Arizona Oath Keepers ran for a 'Write-in' position on the Continental School Board this past election cycle.

He is a strong advocate of arming teachers in the classroom.

For several years, Oath Keepers met on Saturdays at the Green Valley Fire Department district office.

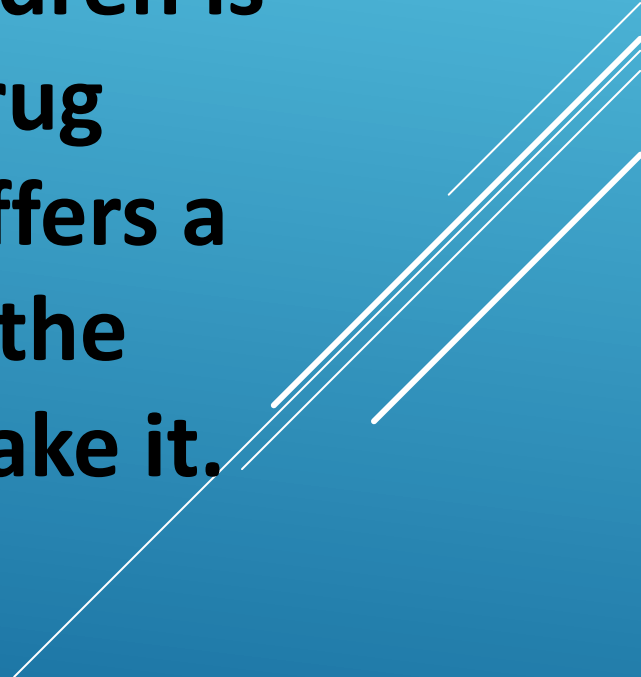

QAnon

- The QAnon movement has been identified by the FBI as a possible source of domestic terrorism, and its sympathizers are making their way to the U.S. House of Representatives.
- In Georgia, QAnon supporter Marjorie Taylor Greene and Lauren Boebert won seats in Congress in November, which is incredibly disturbing when one considers what QAnon believes.
- According to the QAnon conspiracy theory, the U.S. government has been infiltrated by an international ring of pedophiles and Satanists, and Trump was put in power to combat the ring.
- According to QAnon, an anonymous figure named Q is giving them updates on Trump's battle.

The QAnon assertion that Satanist Democrats are farming children underground in order to harvest and drink their blood harkens back to an even older conspiracy theory, the antisemitic blood libel, a medieval fiction that concluded that Jewish people stole and murdered Christian children in order to use their blood to make matzah.

Supporters of the far-right wing group
QAnon are spreading a dangerous conspiracy theory that the blood of kidnapped children is being harvested by liberal elites for a drug called adrenochrome, which they say offers a psychedelic experience and even holds the promise of immortality for those who take it.

Looks to me the Democratic Party needs to address the QAnon phenomenon.

Donald Trump is now backing a QAnon conspiracy theorist to run Arizona's elections as Secretary of State.

Because Trump remains the unquestioned leader of the Republican Party, Mark Finchem's chances of winning soared thanks to the endorsement. "Thank you, President Trump for your endorsement," he tweeted. "You are leading the way on restoring election integrity. I am truly honored to be recognized for the hard work I put in and will continue to do to restore the integrity of our elections."

If the idea of someone with Finchem's conspiracy driven beliefs overseeing a critical swing state's election process, you aren't paying attention. This is how confidence in American elections erodes. And when that happens, we will be in a country that is literally unrecognizable.

PROUD BOYS, OATH

NOT MILITIAS, BUT THEY

Is it legal to act as a private militia in Arizona?

No. All 50 states prohibit private, unauthorized militias and military units from engaging in activities reserved for the state militia, including law enforcement activities.

The Arizona Constitution forbids private military units from operating outside state Authority.

This file is an audio recording of a conference call-style conversation between self-proclaimed Operation Mutual Defense (“OMD”) Advisory Board members Gary HUNT, Ryan PAYNE, Jon RITZHEIMER, Timothy FOLEY and Dennis DICKENSON. This recording is approximately 1 hour, 18 minutes and 48 seconds long. At the beginning of this recording Gary HUNT identified the meeting as a continuation of the earlier meeting on the same day and the time as 5:02 Pacific Time. HUNT said that all members of the OMD Advisory Board were present and he then turned the meeting over to Ryan PAYNE. PAYNE said that he was currently traveling through the “desolation of Oregon.” The conversation was centered on the HAMMOND situation and OMD’s potential response with Ammon BUNDY. At the end of the conversation the OMD Advisory Board also discussed William WOLF and discussed options to break him out of federal custody, wherein PAYNE discussed the use of a protest movement to do so, in a similar plan used at the BUNDY Ranch. The following is a review of this recording.

15. At 0:06:09, the OMD Advisory Board discussed the language for the OMD sign-off and the sanctioning of Lewis ARTHUR's mission in Arizona, Veterans on Patrol.

16. At 0:25:58, HUNT mentioned the OMD Degrees of Involvement.

17. At 0:29:32, HUNT provided an update on the person using the moniker "Raven" and the OMD Advisory Board decided to not spend any additional time trying to identify Raven.

18. At 0:32:00, HUNT spoke about Timothy MCVEIGH. HUNT shared that he corresponded with MCVEIGH at the end of his life. HUNT said that he wrote articles and posted his correspondence with MCVEIGH on his website. HUNT said that he regarded MCVEIGH as the first patriot in the 2nd American Revolution and he defended his actions attacking a government building.

Most of the “Guardians of the Border” groups have disappeared from FB, a favorite place to share their exploits.

Even with the numbers up of Migrants entering the country, there doesn't appear to be as many border militia/vigilante groups roaming the border lands. It is my suspicion that after the Jan 6. insurrection arrest, many of those that took part also patrolled the border have gone dark.

BUNDY VILLE THE REMNANT

An event that over time will rival Ruby Ridge and Waco for historical significance.

In the tiny community of Bunkerville, Nv, a rally cry was sent out to militias across the country to come to the aid of rancher, Cliven Bundy.

The Bureau of Land Management decided after 20 years of non-payment from Bundy for his cattle's grazing rights on Federal Land, it was time to remove his cattle.

Within hours militia groups and others started arriving at the ranch in Support of Bundy. Shortly thereafter a standoff between Federal agents and men bearing arms took place.

The fact that the Federal Government bungled the case against the Bundys has opened the floodgates for actions like we saw on Jan 6.

Time will tell if the Department of Justice is successful in their prosecution of the hundreds of cases now being handled.

Personal

A small Christian group in N.E. Washington had an oversized influence in the political world. Their beginnings started in the 80s as a traveling musical group that performed at anti-tax protest and Christian Identity events. They appeared numerous times on Christian TV shows before retiring to a 500-acre plot of land where they started Marble Community Fellowship. Steeped in Christian Identity they adjusted to a more accepted religious movement, Dominionism.

Wasn't Stewart Rhodes a great addition to our event last year? He is so brilliantly radical. Love it! It's so refreshing to hear a speaker who has such a clear grasp of history, current events, and appropriate action in a time when the liberties we've enjoyed and presumed upon for so long are quickly disappearing. What a blessing Stewart and his Oath Keepers organization are! (See his website at www.OathKeepers.org.) If our military and law enforcement officers, active and retired, refuse to follow unconstitutional orders, our country will turn around overnight and become the freest and most prosperous nation on earth once again!

As the leader of the Arizona Department of Education, former Superintendent Douglas was devoted to improving education in Arizona so that all Arizona's children have the opportunity to achieve their goals in life and contribute as successful American citizens. She believes the only way to accomplish this goal is to return education to its original purpose - the acquisition of knowledge through a classical education. To this end she attempted during her tenure to bring the Hillsdale Barney Charter School standards to all the schools in Arizona. She has now turned her efforts to sounding the alarm about the government controlled, politically correct indoctrination of public schools and helping parents find true educational alternatives for their children. To that end, Douglas now serves on the educational advisory board of Public School Exit.

She is proud to have served two terms on the Peoria Unified School District Governing Board (2005-2012), including two years as president (2008 & 2009). During her tenure she worked to advocate for students' academic opportunities, parental rights and oversight of taxpayers' dollars. She has also served on the Site Councils of two Peoria Unified schools; as well as on numerous of her churches' boards and committees overseeing education programs.

Prior to her advocacy and leadership in education issues, Douglas graduated from Rutgers University and had a distinguished career as a financial expert for a variety of private sector firms. She is also a successful stained glass instructor and artist with commissions in local homes and churches.

1/1 This is painful to watch. The confluence of faith and politics was NEVER supposed to happen. You want dominionism because that is how you get dominionism and nationalism. That is a very dangerous combination and that caused many wars in history.

AMERICAN POLITICAL VIOLENCE

Why we cannot afford to ignore the American insurrectionist movement

Facebook Is Helping Militias Spread Vaccine Disinformation and Calling Them 'Experts' \(vice.com\)

The militia group linked to anti-government activist and Idaho governor candidate Ammon Bundy has established a Facebook group called “The Bundy Ranch”, amassing over 180,000 followers. It serves “as an online bullhorn for whipping up anti-vaccine sentiment and other.

In recent years, right-wing extremists, including white supremacists and anti-government extremists, have been animated by COVID-19 restrictions and perceived threats to gun rights.

Meanwhile, major party politicians refuse to denounce, and sometimes even embrace, QAnon's convoluted conspiracy theories about Satanic child-murdering sex cults, instead of relegating the fringe belief to the wastebasket of history.

A decorative graphic consisting of several parallel white lines of varying lengths, slanted diagonally from the bottom right towards the top right, set against a blue background.

In October 2018, Shea acknowledged that he had distributed a four page manifesto which called for the killing of non-Christian males if a war were to occur and they do not agree to follow fundamentalist biblical law.^{[3][4]} Shea was referred to the Federal Bureau of Investigation for investigation as a result.^[5] In April 2019, Shea was removed as State House Republican Caucus Chair for advocating violence against religious minorities and offering state surveillance of political enemies to members of hate groups.^[6]

Tim Foley and his group were featured in a documentary that received Awards in 2015. The film is called, Cartel Land.

The Arizona Patriots was an anti-Semitic group with an emphasis on stockpiling weapons and baiting public officials. The group first gained public notice by its efforts to clog the Arizona court system with nuisance lawsuits in the 1980's. This was a tactic also employed by the violence-prone Posse Comitatus, whose adherence to the anti-Semitic "Identity" doctrine and refusal to recognize any governmental authority higher than the county level were shared by the Arizona Patriots. Video: 2009 In August of 2009, a man toting an AR-15 showed up at a healthcare event where the President was to attend. He was interviewed by Ernest Hancock, who said he was packing a 9-millimeter Beretta. Hancock had staged the event and had legally defended the Viper Militia convicted of being weaponizers to domestic terrorists including those involved in the Oklahoma City bombing. Notice the connection to Dominionism Satan's weapons are fear, deception (lies which include believing he, Satan, doesn't exist), disbelief in God, intimidation, temptation, addictions, false salvation through false religions, curses, spells, vanity, and his instruction/suggestions through some not all music, education, media, internet, and Hollywood. He uses these weapons and tools in an ongoing attempt to deceive all of us, Christian and unbeliever alike, most of us blissfully unaware of what he is doing to us. His goal is the destruction of our souls, to keep as many people as possible from going to God and the Kingdom of God before he himself is thrown into the pit where he will be constrained and eventually destroyed, along with his angels.

At every turn, Christian symbols and rhetoric have been used by the anti-vax, anti-mask, and anti-democratic American extremists to support their actions, which amount to a continuation of January 6—a slow-motion insurrection. In June, for example, DeSantis told audience members at the Christofascist Faith & Freedom Coalition’s “Road to Majority” conference that it was necessary “to put on the full armor of God” in order to defeat those to his political left. By using that language, DeSantis conflated Democrats, liberals, and progressives with literally demonic forces.

1/4 I personally know men who will hear this and act, and she will not be held accountable for these words by any member of the faith community. It's her right to say it, but there needs to be accountability for the repercussions.

“You have the God kind of faith, and that faith speaks,” she added. “That faith speaks to mountains, those impossible, immovable situations, and I think there’s some mountains they need to hear your voice. ... It’s time the church speaks up.”

Today's Republicans appear to have a bottomless appetite for violence and destruction. It's important to understand that Donald Trump did not create that appetite — although he fed it, encouraged it and shares it.

In his capacity as political cult leader, Trump exemplifies what psychologists describe as "the dark triad" of human behavior: Machiavellianism, narcissism, and psychopathy. His followers idolize and worship him, and all too often seek to imitate his antisocial and pathological behavior.

Republicans are increasingly ready for violence: We look away at our peril | Salon.com

Less than a year after a pro-Trump mob stormed the US Capitol, nearly half of Republican voters (47%) say that "a time will come when patriotic Americans have to take the law into their own hands," per a new nationwide survey by George Washington University's School of Media and Public Affairs.

Many people initially joined the fledgling militia movement largely to protect more aggressively their right to bear arms...

According to Wikipedia the first Qanon Incident took place in Tucson

In May 2018, Michael Lewis Arthur Meyer livestreamed a Facebook video from the site of a Tucson cement plant, asserting, "This is a child sex trafficking camp that no one wants to talk about, that no one wants to do nothing about." The video was viewed 650,000 times over the ensuing week.

Tucson police inspected the plant without finding evidence of criminal activity. Meyer then occupied a tower on the property for nine days, until reaching agreement with police to leave. He later returned to the tower in July, whereupon he was arrested for trespassing. Meyer referenced QAnon and the #WWG1WGA hashtag on his Facebook page.[313][314][315]

At a pro-Trump rally in sight of the U.S. Capitol a day before the violent insurrection, Women Fighting for America founder Christine Hutcherson insisted, “There is no way Joe Biden won this election,” and she asked the assembled Trump die-hards, “Are you ready to start a revolution?”

Hutcherson, who identified herself as a military mom, gave a shoutout to military and law enforcement personnel in the crowd:

I do want to give a shoutout. There's some wonderful patriots here: military, police and our first responders. Can you raise your hands? We've got the USA patriots behind us right here. They are from across this nation. And we need every single one of you guys to lock arms and take back America. We need to put the pressure on. Tomorrow's a very important day in this nation. We need to pray. But not just pray. We are in a season of activation. You see we need to activate because if we do not activate and rise up and push back against this tyranny, against this communist invasion—because let's face it, that's what this is, it's a communist invasion—we will not have an America. And let me tell you: When America falls, there is no place else to run or hide.

Foley presents himself as a veteran of the 82d Airborne Division who took an oath to defend the country from foreign and domestic enemies that still drives his life.

Well, his story of his military career is true, but not to the extent that Foley would like you to believe. He was a soldier, he was a paratrooper in the 82d Airborne Division's 307th Engineer Battalion, but only for a very brief period. He didn't like service in the 82d back in the early 80s as much as he likes to talk about it now.

He was in the Army for 19 months and it looks like a portion of that time he spent as a deserter and a military prisoner.

Armed Assembly: Guns, Demonstrations, and Political Violence in America report

The report recorded 560 armed protests in the U.S. since the start of 2020.

Justin Wagner, director of investigations at Everytown for Gun Safety, said in a press release that the prevalence of armed protests “have continued to put our First Amendment rights in jeopardy.”

“Over the past year, we have seen the proliferation of violence at demonstrations across the country,” Wagner said. “The crux of this phenomenon and report is simple: when firearms are involved, demonstrations are more dangerous and deadly.”

Staci Burk, the dumpster diver who claimed she found ballots from Korea.

For reasons she still doesn't quite understand, Burk, a 47-year-old former Gilbert school board member, aspiring lawyer and Republican activist, was plucked out of political obscurity and placed at the center of a national campaign to overturn Joe Biden's presidential victory. For weeks, a heavily armed security team, sent by Trump's disgraced and pardoned former national security advisor Michael Flynn, lived at her house, allegedly protecting her while stoking her conspiracies and fears.

But nine months after the election, with no great revelation, no smoking gun pointing to the massive fraud the former president claimed, one of Arizona's biggest Stop the Steal proponents is having second thoughts.

Antifa

Key Points

- Antifa is a decentralized, leaderless movement composed of loose collections of groups, networks and individuals.
- Persistent disinformation campaigns about antifa distort public perception of the movement.
- Antifa's professed purpose is to vigorously opposing fascism. While some extreme actors who claim to be affiliated with antifa do engage in violence or vandalism at rallies and events, this is not the norm.
- Because there is no unifying body for antifa, it is impossible to know how many adherents are currently active. Different localities have antifa populations of different strengths, but antifa adherents are also sometimes willing to travel hundreds of miles to oppose a white supremacist event.

Out of the 21 million adamant insurrectionists:

- 1 million are in a militia or personally know a member
- 6 million expressed support for militias
- At least 7 million own a gun
- 3 million have been in the military

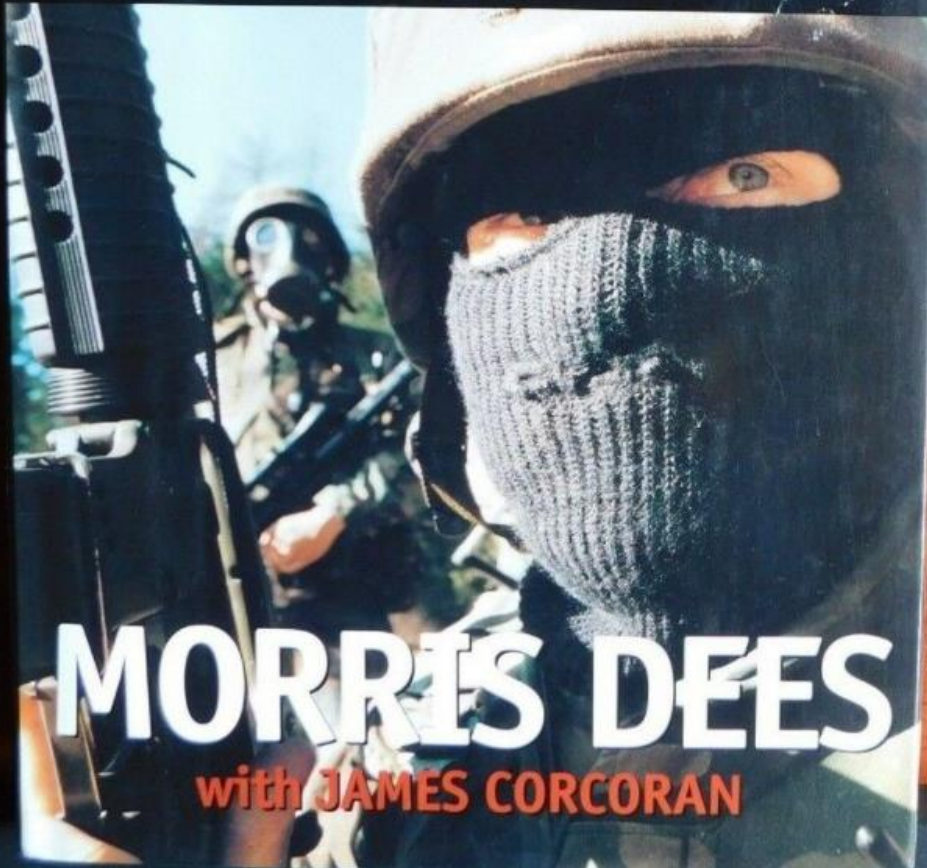

Deep in the woods is where I found the home of my new Senator.

How did a man who was basically unknown, who didn't have a previous occupation get selected for what many would call a prestigious position?

That question set me off on a course that keeps me relatively busy to this day investigating groups on the Far-Right.

GATHERING STORM

America's Militia Threat

The previous wave of far-Right robberies ended with the imprisonment of members of the group the Order and the 1984 death of its leader, Robert Jay Matthews, in a shootout on Whidbey Island off the coast of Washington state. ★

Patriot Prayer events w/ Joey Gibson today at 1:30 PM

- 63% believe in the Great Replacement: “African American people or Hispanic people in our country will eventually have more rights than whites.”
- 54% believe in the QAnon cabal: “A secret group of Satan-worshipping pedophiles is ruling the US government.”

Concerning political affiliation, the adamant insurrectionists are not only Republicans. 51% self-identify as members of the Republican Party, 34% see themselves as Independents 10% as Democrats.

All this tells us is that the insurrectionist movement is more mainstream, cross-party, and more complex than many people might like to think, which does not bode well for the 2022 mid-term elections, or for that matter, the 2024 Presidential election.

Ironically, the solution may be more local than national. Of the ardent insurrectionists, 47 percent see the Federal Government as an “enemy”, 56 percent feel the same way about state governments, but 73 percent see local governments as non-enemy actors. With the latter being the most trusted sources, mayors could potentially have out-sized influence over the future of the movement.

From the Spokesman Review newspaper 2/26/2020

- One copy of the disc turned up in a secondhand store in Colville. It was passed along to a former Stevens County resident, Terry Sayles, who this week posted clips of Shea's speech online and shared the entire speech with The Spokesman-Review.
- Sayles, who lives in Arizona, was an elementary school teacher for 24 years in Northport, just north of Marble. He has long documented far-right activity in the area, citing concern about its influence on politics.
- The video confirms much of what is already known about Shea's ideology. Leaked audio from Marble's 2018 God and Country Celebration, first reported by the Guardian, revealed that Shea and radio host Jack Robertson spoke of a looming civil war, with Shea asserting that "liberty must be kept by force.
- The 2013 speech also contains echoes of what Shea later wrote in leaked manifestos titled "Biblical Basis for War" and "Restoration."

U.S. Has 'More Terrorists Today Than on 9/11,' Says Former DHS Counterterrorism Chief

“Over the last decade, 429 innocent victims were murdered at the hands of extremists. The overwhelming majority of whom were far, far right extremists and white supremacists,” he said. “But we also know full well that you don’t have to be an official card-carrying extremist to cause harm. The problem we see is that violence motivated by hate, anti-Semitism, and other forms of bigotry increasingly has been normalized.”

Important Events that gave rise to the Christian Patriot Movement.

The notorious Ruby Ridge standoff of August 1992, when U.S. marshals attempted to apprehend a man named Randy Weaver at his family's remote hillside cabin in northern Idaho. Weaver, who had resisted efforts by the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms (ATF) to force him to inform on the white supremacist group Aryan Nations, hadn't shown up for his trial on weapons charges.

An initial exchange of fire left Weaver's 14-year-old son and a U.S. marshal dead. Federal authorities then laid siege to Weaver's cabin for 11 days, during which an FBI sniper wounded Weaver and family friend Kevin Harris and killed Weaver's wife, Vicki.

McVeigh reacted even more strongly to federal authorities' handling of a 51-day standoff with members of the Branch Davidian religious sect near Waco, Texas. Like Ruby Ridge, the Waco siege began with an ATF raid; it ended in a fire that killed around 75 members of the millennial sect in April 1993

On April 19, 1995 – exactly two years after the fiery conclusion of the botched Waco siege – McVeigh detonated explosives planted in a truck outside the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building in Oklahoma City. He plotted the attack with two fellow Army veterans who shared his anti-government views, Terry Nichols and Michael Fortier. *Gary Hunt is considered by some to be the 5th member of McVeigh's group.

- growth of accelerationism, which is mostly associated with white supremacist ideology
- Seeks to hasten societal collapse through acts of violence such as a race war
- fundamentally anti-democratic
- One or two leaders' kind of sanctioning whatever that catalyst and the response was to lead us to a moment where a mass group of people show up and believe violence is justified.

During the 80's the Byrds were well known Christian entertainers often appearing on Christian TV stations and church conferences across the country. One group they repeatedly performed for was at the Pete Peters' summer bible camps in LaPorte Colorado.

It was at the 1989 conference that Barry co-wrote along with 15 other men a pamphlet called, Remnants Resolved.

Among the signers of this anti-Semitic pamphlet were known members of the American Nazi Party.

A Timothy McVeigh connection

Kehoe has been accused by his brother Cheyne and a Spokane motel manager of being involved in, or having prior knowledge of, the Oklahoma City bombing on April 19, 1995. Cheyne claimed to have knowledge of Chevie's involvement in the bombing shortly after he was sentenced for his role in the shootout. The manager of the Shadow motel in Spokane claimed to have seen Chevie with convicted bomber Timothy McVeigh at the motel four to six months prior to the bombing. The manager also claimed that on the morning of the bombing, Chevie showed up to the motel and asked him to put on CNN and became ecstatic when news of the bombing appeared. The manager also claimed that Chevie had told him in the days prior that something big would happen on April 19.

“Remnant Resolves.”

The document elaborates that the men felt a “spiritual burden”: “This burden was the need and desire to see Biblical principles of government once again established in our nation,” it reads. The men agreed that if they could not come to a consensus on solving that burden, they would not proceed with writing the document.

What comes next are resolutions to fix society for “the remnant” — the way for the chosen people to live in the fullest realization of liberty. Biblical principles should be put into practice at every level of government.
